

Privacy Policy

Free Software Database

Cookies

Tracking cookies are little files stored by websites on your computer to allow for long-term identification. This website does not use tracking cookies.

Technical cookies are little files stored in the temporary memory of your computer to allow the customization of the website and improve the user experience. Technical cookies disappear when the browser is closed or after a short period and are not used for tracking. This website does use technical cookies.

Data collection

This website does not collect your personal data without your explicit consent.

All data you send us via email or web forms is stored in Europe and deleted immediately after it is no longer needed to satisfy your request.

When you browse any of our webpages we may collect the request metadata (IP address, timestamp, headers, ...) to prevent service abuses and delete it after 3 months.

EU GDPR

This website honors the European General Data Protection Regulation (EU GDPR).

All accepted Right to Erasure ("Right to be Forgotten") requests will be processed within one month (or even faster if possible) and you will receive confirmation when deletion is completed.

This website may refuse to honor your request when your data:

- cannot be clearly associated to you;
- is necessary for reasons of freedom of expression and information (journalism, academic, artistic and literary purposes);
- is required to comply local or EU regulations;
- is required for reasons of public health or public interest;
- is necessary for establishing, exercising or defending legal claims;
- is necessary for scientific or historical research in the public interest.

When making the request, you must include:

- a full-color front-back scan of any valid identificative document (driving license or identity card);
- a complete list of the data you'd like to be erased or anonymized.

The personally identifiable information in your request is stored in Europe and deleted immediately after the request has been fully processed.

Other privacy policies

This website has no control over the cookies and the logs created by third parties (eg. embedded resources, web proxies, ...) and the administrator may not even be aware of their content, position, duration or purpose.

By using our website, you also accept the following third party policies:

- Cloudflare

A proxy used to shield our website from malicious traffic.

<https://www.cloudflare.com/trust-hub/privacy-and-data-protection/>

- Cronitor

A ping service used to monitor our infrastructure.

<https://cronitor.io/privacy>